

The result beautifully upgraded the look and created a warm stately perception of a main office building.

The project is shown being assembled in the manufacturing facility.

Stately Reception Desk

designed by Lauren Murphy

SITUATION

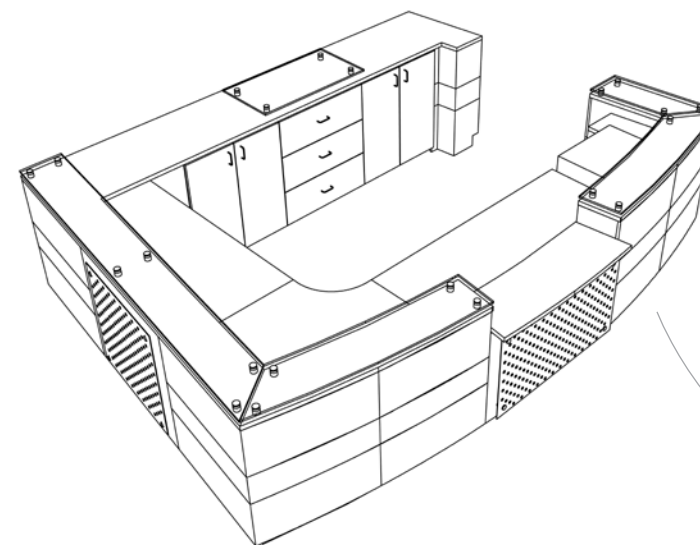

Major oil company was looking to update one of their main facilities. They were in need of a reception station that would create a warm, stately entrance and be a functional space for the resident worker. The solution also had to be appropriate scale to fit well within the large space.

SOLUTION

A beautiful U-Shaped station, with marble and glass transaction surfaces was created. Special metal accents and inlay veneers complete the unique look.

RESULT

This custom solution installed on-time and on budget. The customer continues to be delighted with the product.

Initial drawing shows the complete unit.
